Certified General Accountants Association of Canada

An international partnership of global proportions...

The Certified General Accountants Association of Canada (CGA) and the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA) are delighted to announce the signing of a mutual recognition agreement.

In the increasingly globalized world of professional accountancy, this international partnership between our two large and influential bodies marks the beginning of a new era of global recognition and co-operation.

This partnership provides access for members of CGA and ACCA to join the other body, opening opportunities for internationally-mobile accountants. Both bodies believe that the accountancy profession is best served by partnerships which promote global standards, and enhance the value of accountants in the workplace, and by qualifications which provide opportunity for talented people to develop skills required by employers.

ABOUT CGA

With 68,000 members and students, in Canada, Bermuda, Hong Kong and China, CGA is Canada's fastest growing professional accounting designation. Certified General Accountants focus on integrity, ethics and the highest education requirements. CGAs provide strategic counsel and financial leadership to all sectors of the Canadian economy.
